Just as they were about to absorb Lily and her mother into their group, a faint barking grew in volume. At the sound, the creepy dolls' faces softened, their eyes flickering with sparks of love as a Golden Retriever puppy broke into their circle. Suddenly, the darkness grew brighter as the puppy danced on its paws among the dolls. Laughter, pure and happy, rose from the dolls who no longer looked that creepy to Lily.

"The puppy changes them," her mother said, sounding a bit like the adult scientist version Lily knew, who was fascinated by strange phenomena. "It brings them such joy."

"A dog's love is powerful magic," Lily said. "I think we need to let this puppy stay here."

"I agree, but how do we get back to the real world if we don't rescue the dog?" her mother asked.

"We can send you home," one of the dolls said. "Close your eyes."
