"I am."

As they sped over to Krandle Park, all Lianne could think about was that she'd been training with the StoneMan all this time and hadn't even known it. Before she'd learned that superheroes were real, she'd been a big fan of StoneMan as a character. Now, she was about to fight evil alongside him!

They arrived at the park and hopped out of the truck. Lianne squinted at something in the sky, hurtling toward the shore. "What is that?"

But Sergeant McMann's-or StoneMan's-attention wasn't on that foreign object in the sky. Instead, he glared at a man wearing a black super suit standing on a rocky peninsula jutting into the lake.

"It's Morton Blackthorn," StoneMan said. "And he's right where I want him."

But Lianne couldn't take her gaze off that object coming closer to them. If she didn't do something fast, it would smash into the ground and wipe out anyone in range. She turned to tell StoneMan she'd take care of that object, but he was already running over toward Blackthorn.
