Soon, the ship reached a spot where the ocean floor was exposed. Theo peered down into it from the deck of the ship. "That looks like the patch of sand that brought me here!" Beside it, the octopus waved all its tentacles them. "I think he's telling us to go down there."

Theo and the captain anchored the ship and dove off her into the sand patch. Together, they traveled as Theo had through the sifting sand. Then they were suddenly surrounded by water again, and they had to swim up, up, up. When they breached the surface, Theo spotted Tori and his mom on the beach chairs.

"What is this place?" Captain Barnstable asked as he and Theo walked out of the water.

"Captain Barnstable, welcome to the future," Theo said, eager to introduce the captain to his family and make this the most interesting summer vacation in history.
