January 1st, New Years

New Years Day occurs on January 1st each year. It is the first day of the year on most modern calendars. The day was observed in honor of Janus, the god of gateways and beginnings. This is how January got its name. New Years Day is one of the most celebrated public holidays around the world. People celebrate with fireworks at midnight. It is a common tradition to make New Year's resolutions. New Year's resolutions are personal goals people make for the upcoming year.

What is one New Years Resolution you have? Describe three steps you will take to meet your goal.

Resolution: Read books for enjoyment

Steps:

1. Read before bed instead of looking at my phone.
2. Complete one book per month.

December 8: Pretend to be a Time Traveler Day

Today we celebrate a subject that is a fun mystery to all of us. Time travel has been a popular topic for many years. There are plenty of books and movies on the topic. One of the most popular movies about time travel is "Back to the Future" featuring Michael J. Fox and Christopher Lloyd. The big question for today is are we able to travel in time to events that have already happened or events that haven't happened yet? The short answer is - we don't know!

What do you think?

How can you learn different theories on how time travel works?

December 8: Pretend to be a Time Traveler Day

Pretend you came across a time travel machine that really works. What period of time would you want to travel to? Be sure to give at least 3 reasons for your choice.

If I discovered a time machine, I would travel to pioneer times. It would be very interesting to see how different America's landscape was during this time. Also, most of history from this period was written from the point of view of settlers. I would like to see first hand what life was like for Native Americans.
